DUBLIN METROPOLITAN POLICE:

Detective Department,

Dublin, 31st. December, 1915

Subject, "NEW IRELAND".

With reference to Minute of The Under Secretary on attached, I beg to state that H.F.T. Maguire is a brother of Doctor Kathleen Maguire, and lives with her at 67, Merrion Square. Beyond being a Director of the Company, he does not, so far as can be ascertained, take any part in the production of the paper nor mix in politics.

Patrick J. Little, B.A., is a son of the late Philip Francis Little, an Irishman who was for many years a Judge in Newfoundland. He studied in turn for the Church, Medicine and Law, qualifying as a Solicitor in 1914. Although he has an Office at 22, Eustace St., he does not appear to have any practice. He is now principally associated with Denis Gwynn in the production of "New Ireland". He is said to be in such comfortable circumstances as not to be dependant on any Profession for a living. He stops with his brother Edward J. Little - a practising Barrister, at 19, Waterloo Road.

Another brother - Corneilus Wilfred

Little,

The Chief Commissioner.

Superintendent.

With reference to Minutes of The Under Secretary on attached, I beg to state that M.T. Maguire is a brother of Doctor Kathleen Maguire, and lives with her at 67, Morrison Square. Beyond being a Director of the Company, he does not, so far as can be ascertained, take any part in the promotion of the paper nor mix in politics. Patrick J. Little, B.A., is a son of the late Philip Francis Little, an Irishman who was for many years a Judge in New Zealand. He studied in turn for the Church, Medicine and Law, qualifying as a Solicitor in 1914. Although he has an office at 25, Eustace St., he does not appear to have any practice. He is now principally associated with Denis Gwynn in the promotion of "New Ireland". He is said to be in such comfortable circumstances as not to be dependent on any profession for a living. He stops with his brother Edward J. Little - a practising Barrister, at 19, Waterloo Road. Another brother - Cornelius Wilfred Little.
